

NSQG Faces of Hope Challenge Quilt

Are you ready to get reacquainted with your stash and get your wonky on? Boy, I sure did! Once I began pulling fabrics from their bins and shelves, I discovered new applications from their pattern design. Rather than thinking about the fabric as a whole, fussy-cutting became my focus.

This challenge provides you with a self-guided and self-paced class taught by Alex Anderson.

During COVID lockdown, TheQuiltShow.com lost the ability to produce shows with speakers, and one of the co-hosts, Alex Anderson, began regularly scheduled half-hour Facebook Live videos leading sewing projects and teaching skills for all levels. She lovingly calls followers her online guild.

In late fall of 2020, Alex showcased her dear friend, Freddy Moran's daily production of wonky faces (Avatars). Freddy is a colorfully creative quilter! Her studio is amazing! And "Red is a Neutral" is her mantra. I know we can all appreciate one of her quotes, "When it comes to fabric, more is better and excess is never enough."

Let me introduce Freddy Moran via a couple videos:

Alex introduces Freddy: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=gfZwQUAIV_k

The introduction to Freddy, her house and quilting style runs from 5:50 – 17:00 in the video.

This is around 6 minutes in length.

Alex asked me to suggest that on show 2705, Freddy was on and it was an amazing field piece! People can sign up for a free one-week membership to view it. Go to: <https://thequiltshow.com/> Enjoy!
